HEAT CAUSED HER TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Mrs. Clara Bosch Hanged Herself in the Basement While Her Family Slept.

While suffering from an attack of tem porary dementia, caused by the heat, Mrs. Clara Bosch, wife of Henry Bosch, a manufacturer of harness and leather goods, ended her life by hanging herself early yesterday morning in the basement of their home at No. 3938 South Broadway.

Her suffering had been aggravated for some time by a malarial fever, which became so severe that she complained that she was burning up. When Mr. Bosch awoke yesterday morning at 5 o'clock Mrs. Bosch was missing from her accustomed place, and be at once instituted a search in the basement of the building he found the body of his wife hanging suspended from a joist by a small piece of rope, which from a joist by a small piece of rope, which she had picked up in the shop. Mrs. Bosch probably had been dead for several hours. According to the statement of Mr. Bosch, his wife had suffered greatly from the heat and had also worried a great deal over the dangers which she imagined threatened their two younger sons, Charles and John, aged 15 and 9 years, respectively.

Mrs. Bosch gave no intimation that she intended to end her life. The supposition is that she awakened in the night and ended her life while her mind was unbalanced by the fever.

The Coroner viewed the remains about noon, giving a verdict of suicide. The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Maurice V. Joyce, a prominent East St.

Circuit Judge M. W. Schaefer declared that partridge would cover quail and the laws affecting the former bird for its protection would also protect quail. He does not fear that hunters will attempt to hunt quail except in the season prescribed for partridge. This is now only during the month of September.

The law which the recent act repeals provided for the protection of quait except during a month and twenty days in each year and this act took the place of one which allowed hunters to shoot quail for three months of each year.

Yesterday was East St. Louis Day at the Elks' Carnival and Fair, and a large number of East St. Louisans attended the show. Because of his work in attempting to settle the strike in East St. Louis, Mayor M. M. Stephens gave up the idea of going to the carnival. The Carnival Reception Committee had not been notified of this fact, and waited for three hours on the public square of Belleville for the arrival of the municipal officers of the city. Instead of arriving in a party, the city officers came in twos and threes. Four carriages had been hired for the occasion, as it was intended that the city officials should be given a drive about the city. A brass band also waited in vain. EAST SIDE ELECTRIC LINES CONSOLIDATED OVER GAME LAW

Mississippi Valley Transit Company's Holdings Acquired by Forman-Kobusch Interests.

The railway, equipment, unoccupied rightof-way and all property of the Mississippi East Side differ with Attorney General Valley Transit Company, successors to the Mississippi Valley Electric Railway Comlaw, which does not specifically offer pro-tection to quail. Quail is not mentioned in were sold to the Forman-Kobusch interests

The action terminates a long and bitter war between the two interests. They were rivals to some extent in the East Side field, and the efforts of the older lines to oust the Mississippi Valley brought about some exciting struggles. Both rushed through lines from East St. Louis to Collinsville. The Mississippi Valley Company had owned franchises through the county to Collins-ville, Edwardsville and Alton for three ville, Edwardsville and Alton for three years, but on account of lack of funds had been unable to build. The management of the East St. Louis-Belleville car lines then built to Collinsville and applied for a fran-chise in Edwardsville. The latter provoked chise in Edwardsville. The latter provoked the hardest fight and the City Council of Edwardsville granted no franchise. Overtures were then made for the purchase of the right-of-way of the Mississippi Valley. The formal transfer will be made within a few days. George J. Kobusch of St. Louis represented the purchasers and Attorney W. M. Warnock of Edwardsville the Mississippi Valley Transit Company.

The two lines between East St. Louis and Believille and the two between East St. Louis and Believille and Collinsville and the route for the proposed road to Edwardsville are now controlled by one management.
